

SASP Sponsored Margaret Foddy Postgraduate Travel Award

Introduction and Instructions

The Margaret Foddy Postgraduate Travel Awards provide financial assistance to postgraduates who wish to attend future SASP conferences.

In 2016, SASP is pleased to offer five $300 awards to postgraduate students to assist with their travel costs.

Decisions regarding the distribution of the awards will be based upon answers provided to the questions on the attached two-page Application Form and applicants' accompanying curriculum vitae. These decisions will be made by members of the SASP Margaret Foddy Postgraduate Travel Award panel, and will be final.

Although we recognise the variable and multidimensional nature of fairness, we will, nevertheless, strive for fairness in our decisions in accord with our understanding of the values pursued by SASP. Among other things, we will consider the likely costs incurred through attendance, opportunities for alternative funding, past receipt of this Travel Award, and future eligibility for this award (i.e., final year students are unlikely to be able to receive this award in the future).

To be eligible, students must meet the following criteria:

- Paid membership in SASP;
- Presenting (poster, individual paper, symposium paper) at the conference.

To apply for the 2016 Margaret Foddy Postgraduate Travel Award, you must submit:

- A completed two-page SASP Sponsored Margaret Foddy Postgraduate Travel Award Application Form,
- A copy of your curriculum vitae, and
- A statement from your postgraduate supervisor in support of your application and, in particular, confirming your answer to the question regarding your access to other forms of financial aid to attend the 2016 SASP conference.

Send all information electronically – no later than 31st January, 2016 – to Peter Strelan at peter.strelan@adelaide.edu.au.

All applicants will be advised of the outcome by the end of February.
